UNSW Foundation Studies delivers high quality university pathway programs to UNSW Australia and other universities. It was the first in Australia, and after 25 years is still the country’s foremost Foundation Program provider. Experienced academic staff and strong student support services ensure high levels of student progression. Step up to university through UNSW Foundation Studies.

- Study on the UNSW campus where you have full access to facilities and receive the best preparation for your undergraduate studies.
- International students who successfully complete the program have a guaranteed place in an undergraduate degree at UNSW in Sydney, although other conditions may apply in some programs.
- Flexible programs allow you to enter at different times during the year and at different academic levels.
- Courses taught at UNSW Foundation Studies are specifically designed to prepare you for your chosen degree course and are continually modified as new areas of study emerge. All programs are accredited by the Academic Board of UNSW, which monitors the quality and standards of the curriculum.
- Our teaching follows university practice with lectures and tutorials. Most tutorial classes have about 18 students, so each student receives individual attention. Extra sessions with teachers are offered outside class time to help students achieve their academic goals.
- UNSW Pathway Packages are available providing a seamless study pathway between UNSW Institute of Languages (if additional English language training is required), UNSW Foundation Studies and UNSW undergraduate degree programs - all on one visa.
